Annotation: The article provides feedback on the impact of globalization on the process's international trade relations and the relationship between and. Some trends in the Global economy and their characteristic features are analyzed.

Keywords: globalization, economy, trends, intensification, gross domestic product, exports, imports, interrelationships, dynamism.

Growing interdependence of countries and peoples of the World, Development despite all the differences in Level, culture, historical traditions, to such a stage it turned out that this stage is called - globalization. New understanding of economics, politics and equally applicable to culture. But it is precisely the globalization of the economy that all forms the basis of globalization processes and is a threat to the established world structure throws. In the 20th century, the global economy developed with strong dynamism. 20th century growth rates of trade in the second half to the growth rates of the world gross product developed relatively quickly. In the last years of the last century, world exports are 1.7 times faster than gross product increased. It is the national economy of individual countries to an ever greater extent to the foreign market that it works, while exports exceed a quarter of the global product shows. Economic globalization has made it an economic life due to the fact that it has a number of new quality marks it can be divided into a separate stage of internationalization, which is the stage of the last century it differs in relation to the head or middle. Interconnection of economic activities current at the time, not only is it manifesting stronger, but also reaching a global level, almost all covers countries. Of course, above all industrialized countries their economies are intertwined, but other countries also have different speeds and speeds with are involved in universal processes.

In the context of today's globalization, it is becoming more important than ever to protect the national interests of our country, ensure its security and stability, and strengthen independence. In such conditions, it is necessary to achieve the preservation of the status of the spiritual and moral foundations of the state, national and universal values, spiritual heritage. Globalization (lot. globus — sphere, planet Earth ()) is a concept that expresses the increased risk of religious - extremist attacks on new universal orders, the expansion of interaction between states and people, the world — wide information space, which was formed in the development of the world at the beginning of the second half of the 20th - 21st centuries. Also, this concept is a country of convergence, unification, events in the socio-economic, political and cultural sphere of countries around the world it is characterized by having a universal scale, going beyond its scope, covering the entire globe. Globalization means—first of all, an incomparable acceleration of the pace of life. The basis of threats against national spirituality is formed by processes that contradict the foundations of universal and national morality, value, culture, religion and upbringing, are associated with the deepening of the human personality, non-observance of social, spiritual and moral norms. By spiritual threats, we understand ideological, ideological and information attacks, which, regardless of language, religion, beliefs, aim to exclude the spiritual world of any person from his mind precisely to the point of being free. Globalization processes, along with science, science and technology, economics and other fields, have a great influence on the issue of democratization of Public Administration. spirituality, the threat can spontaneously become one of the serious risks on the way to ensuring the security of the country, its national interests, the future of a physically and spiritually healthy generation, and ultimately lead society to a crisis.

As a result of the processes of globalization, multimadality has entered into the national identity, which is a danger. Now, under its influence, the characteristics inherent in each nation are mixed with the general culture. Against ideological threats that negatively affect the development of society, leading to sad consequences, members of society, first of all, strengthen their faith and faith through the acquisition of deep and comprehensive knowledge of our youth. In being able to resist the harmful consequences of globalization: national intellectual capacity building; youth consciousness of national-spiritual heritage and making it an integral part of the worldview; to signify national identity to young people, and in them formation of a sense of patriotism; the formation of historical consciousness and historical memory in history increasing interest; love for the family honor, the neighborhood, reading books, promoting knowledge and enlightenment; it is necessary to cultivate respect and respect for our national values and traditions. At present, there are many definitions regarding globalization as well as this process. The term globalization was originally coined in the early 80s of the 20th century by the American scientist T. Levitt's 1983 paper, published in the "Harvard Business Revue", was used in the "Harvard Business Review". In fact, globalization has existed to varying degrees and manifestations since the second half of the 20th century, and by the time of our present, the outbreak of this process is taking place. While some aspects of this are positive for our country, some have a negative impact. This is especially detrimental to morale enough. Of course, it is impossible to turn a blind eye to these processes. Regardless of the degree to which the problem is to prevent it, the search for measures to combat it is a task before us. In this regard, Islam Karimov expressed the opinion: "someone interprets it as a time of high technology, someone as a century of thought, and someone else as a period of gross informatization. Of course, all these thoughts also have a truth, a rational core in a certain sense. Because, it is natural that each of them in itself reflects a sign of some sign of today's lush and colorful life. But in the minds of many, this period is impressing as a period of globalization" In fact, the globalization process is now entering our lives more and more quickly and deeply. The globalization process can be used for two different purposes – the cause of goodness and evil. While acts on the path of goodness serve to develop the state and society, the product of progress that aims at evil is a complete reflection of this.

When we talk about threats in the process of globalization, it has its influence on spirituality, as in all areas. First of all, globalization is a social, political and economic process. It is also studied as a phenomenon that strongly influences the culture of peoples. He was perceived as a positive factor in economic integration in the world and as an assistant to the consequential transformation of the national economy. But, with the growth of information exchange in the world, it also entered the field of Culture, Science. As a result, spiritual threats affecting the culture of the nation bring new challenges to humanity. We need to resist these spiritual and ideological threats that are coming from abroad, poisoning the minds of citizens of our country, especially young people, with the ideas of individualism, egocentrism. Our invaluable wealth can achieve the Prevention of spiritual threats by forming a spirit of respect for our national spirituality and values. When it comes to spirituality, it should be noted that it primarily protects the nation, the national culture, the national lifestyle. Therefore, in the process of globalization, a significant factor is the high morale of people in the Prevention of spiritual and ideological threats to the national culture of the country. To do this, it is necessary to organize spiritual and ideological work in society on the basis of contemporary requirements. That is, firstly, to protect young people with the future of the country from various ideological threats; secondly, to comprehend in every possible way what exactly is aimed at moral threats; and thirdly, to increase the sense of genius, without being indifferent to the events that are happening around us. Today, even a small message directed against human spirituality, which at first glance seems trivial, can take strength from the intensity of globalization in the information world and cause unimaginable damage, the damage of which is not visible to the eye but cannot be measured by anything. In particular, the influence of repressions in the mask of "mass culture", a manifestation of spiritual threats, on the minds of young people poses a threat to the development of the country. In particular, the fact that underage children sit in various internet clubs and access pornographic sites, incorrectly use mobile phones to carry obscene films and pictures, all of which cause tremendous harm to human spiritual maturity. It is necessary to be attentive in such processes in our society today, to start youth on the right path. In this: - in them, the formation of immunity to various spiritual threats; - to regularly introduce young people to the patterns of our spiritual heritage; - it is necessary to carry out explanatory work on the negative effects of mobile phones and computer games on human health, spirituality, consciousness on young children. Only then will we keep our youth, and at the same time our people, alive from the flood of any evil forces and spiritual threats, they will be able to form in their hearts feelings of devotion to the Land, love for the motherland.
